G20 Summit 2023: Member Nations, Leaders, Agenda, And Schedule

The Group of Twenty (G20) is an intergovernmental organization made up of 19 countries plus the European Union (EU). The G20 was formed in 1999 in response to global economic difficulties, and it has since played an important role in tackling significant global economic challenges. It is made up of finance ministers from some of the world's greatest economies, representing roughly 80% of global GDP, 75% of international commerce, and two-thirds of the world's population.

G20 has expanded on topics from economics and finance, including climate change, sustainable energy, debt relief, and multinational corporation taxation. For the G20 2023 Summit, the discussions would revolve around: increasing loans to developing nations from multilateral institutions, reforming international debt structures, regulating cryptocurrencies and addressing the impact of geopolitical uncertainties on food and energy security.

A G20 Leaders' Declaration was adopted at the conclusion of the G20 Summit, stating Leaders' commitment towards the priorities discussed and agreed upon during the respective ministerial and working group meetings. In addition to the regular International Organisations (UN, IMF, WB, WHO, WTO, ILO, FSB and OECD) and Chairs of Regional Organisations (AU, AUDA-NEPAD and ASEAN), India, as G20 Presidency, would be inviting ISA, CDRI and ADB as Guest Ios.

Hangzhou Asian Games Opens with a Futuristic Ceremony

The Hangzhou Asian Games began on Saturday with a really unusual opening ceremony, including a spectacular futuristic light show as its centerpiece, blending the realms of artificial intelligence with eco-friendly technology. The compelling show ingeniously integrated elements of technology, China's rich cultural history, and the sense of oneness across the continent.

In keeping with the major topic of 'Tides Surging in Asia,' the ceremony focused on the new era's intertwining of China, Asia, and the world, as well as the Asian people's togetherness, love, and friendship. The lighting of the cauldron -- the Games' Flame -- was done in an unusual manner, demonstrating China's technological might.

Around 11,000 athletes competed in the Tokyo Olympics two years ago, and roughly 10,500 will compete in the Paris Games next year. The 2018 Asian Games featured slightly more than 11,000 athletes, which will be surpassed in Hangzhou.

The 19th edition of the continental showpiece will be hosted in five cities, including Huzhou, Ningbo, Shaoxing, Jinhua, and Wenzhou.

Asia's 45 nations and territories will fight for 481 gold medals across 41 sports and 61 disciplines, including Esports, which will make its Games debut. Football, volleyball, cricket, rowing, sailing, and modern pentathlon competitions began before to Saturday's opening ceremony.

India's Rich and Diverse Languages

India is a land of linguistic diversity, with over 780 languages spoken across its 28 states and 8 union territories. According to the Indian Constitution, there are 22 official languages, each with its own alphabet, literature, and cultural history. With over 44% of the population speaking Hindi as their first or second language, Hindi is the most widely spoken language. Hindi got its name from the Persian word Hind, meaning 'land of the Indus River'. Bengali is also one of the most spoken languages in the world.

English is the second language in India, and the reason why stems from history. English was the official language during British rule. When India was granted independence, the language lingered, and time hasn't changed that.

In fact, India is ranked as the world's second-largest English-speaking country after the United States, with over 1 billion people speaking it.

Hindi is the official language of India, with English being the second official language. However, there is no national language as per the Constitution.

Other prominent languages with more than 25 million speakers include Bengali, Telugu, Marathi, Tamil, Urdu, Gujarati, Kannada, Malayalam, Odia, and Punjabi. Some of the languages have ancient origins, such as Sanskrit, Tamil, and Prakrit, while others, such as Persian, Arabic, Portuguese, and English, have evolved from numerous influences.

Let Your Actions be the Catalyst for a World Transformed

What we are, our children will become. Children today are missing out opportunities for social interaction and face to face communication which in turn is affecting their socio-emotional development. 75% of all communication is non verbal. Sometimes lessons don't require words, they can be conveyed effortlessly through small gestures and actions. Here are some lessons we can teach our children without saying a word.

• When you meet an animal, show care and love, talk to the children gently and express your love for animals. • When you pass a homeless person, share some coins and explain to the children that not everyone is lucky enough to have a home. • When you see a flower, touch it, smell it and talk about the miracle of nature. •

When you see a snail on the pavement, pick him up and move him to a safe place and discuss with your children what empathy and kindness is. • When you see a plant struggling to grow, water it and show that it's not only humans and animals that need care. •

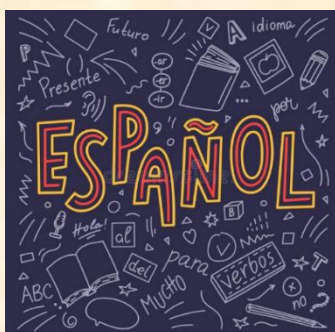

When you hear of bad news, offer your time and try to assist those in need. • When you see the sunset, stop in marvel at the vast expanse of the universe and the important role we all play in its mechanics. • When you find a lost item on the ground. Make sure you return it to the lost and found and model honesty and community. • When a friend has a sad look in their eyes, put your hand on their shoulder and ask if they need anything. Model care, love and empathy. • When you see somebody looking lost. Stop and ask if they need directions. Show that it's ok to help someone whom you don't know. Always remember, children are observing and absorbing things from their surroundings.

"In the Coming Years, Original Thinking will Matter the Most." -Mr. Joseph Emanuel, Director, CBSE

Q. The NEP 2020 is a bold step that aims to empower students to pursue careers they are passionate about. How exactly will the NEP 2020 make it easier for students to follow their passion and choose a career path that aligns with their interests, sir? What should the parameters for selecting a career be- skill or interest?

Mr Emanuel: Schools and parents must give students an opportunity to choose subjects they are interested in. There should not be any compulsion in choosing their subjects. If you look at the school level, there are a lot of subjects available, including music, dance and the likes. The problem is at the higher education level. If the subject does not have much scope, no one will choose it. There is a need for a minimum number of students for each course to prevent segregation of subjects. That is how NEP 2020 aims to promote subjects that allow students to follow their passion.

Q. The education system is undergoing a tremendous change. The credit-based system introduced by the NEP 2020 has the potential to offer students more flexibility. Can you explain the need of the same in the present day scenario and how the system will help the students in pursuing their academic goals, sir?

Mr Emanuel: Currently, a strict bifurcation between the classes exists. In the times to come, a point grading scale will be followed. A numerical point will be allotted to each grade. As a student completes a class or a course, a numerical value will be added, and this grade will tell the capacity of the person. The score of each person is stored at a digital 'bank', which gives this system its name of a 'credit system'.

Q. NEP is a commendable initiative that aims to make the students future ready. As technology continues to advance, what skills do you believe will be most valuable for students to develop in order to thrive in the future job market, sir?

Mr Emanuel: I believe that up to the Senior Secondary level, till the time you are in school, you must be an all-rounder. All aspects of your education are equally important till this level. After that, for further studies, you should take your skills and interests into account. Your capabilities are important for selection of a career. You must also look at its scope for employability and growth in that particular sector in times to come.

Q. How will the NEP 2020 facilitate a seamless transition for students from school to college and eventually into the workforce? What are three golden rules for a student undergoing this transition?

Mr Emanuel: The present challenge is that the graduates are not employed. Higher education says that the school children do not have the required capability for their courses. The focus is on creating a shift in the schooling of students to promote skills that allow them to pursue optimum graduation and post-graduation courses. You must choose your career according to the job market. Money does matter. In the coming years, original thinking will be what matters the most. AI might replace many jobs, but it cannot replace thinkers. Be alert all the time, and keep the creative spark alive in yourself. Thank you so much!

L'importance de l'éducation

Nelson Mandela a dit à juste titre : "L'éducation est l'arme la plus importante pour changer le monde". L'éducation joue un rôle important dans le développement d'un individu et fait de lui un citoyen averti. C'est l'éducation qui rend un individu autonome, aide à supprimer les maux sociaux et contribue au développement de la société et de la nation dans son ensemble. L'éducation aide à percer le mystère de la nature. Elle nous permet de comprendre et d'améliorer le fonctionnement de notre société. Il crée les conditions d'une vie meilleure. L'éducation fait ressortir les capacités de combattre l'injustice qui se produit dans la société. Tout individu a droit à l'éducation.

Une bonne éducation donne de nombreux objectifs à la vie, tels que l'amélioration de l'avancement personnel, l'augmentation du statut social, l'amélioration de la santé sociale, le progrès économique, le succès de la nation, l'établissement d'objectifs de vie, la sensibilisation à de nombreux problèmes sociaux et la résolution de problèmes environnementaux, problèmes et autres questions connexes. De nos jours, l'éducation est devenue très simple et facile grâce à la mise en oeuvre de programmes d'enseignement à distance. Le système éducatif moderne est tout à fait capable de résoudre les problèmes sociaux d'analphabétisme et d'inégalité entre les personnes de race, de religion et de caste différentes.

L'éducation développe l'esprit des gens à un niveau élevé et aide à éliminer toutes les différences dans la société. Cela nous rend capables de devenir un bon apprenant et de comprendre tous les aspects de la vie. Il permet de comprendre tous les droits de l'homme, les droits sociaux, les devoirs et les responsabilités envers le pays..

Korean: The Rising Star of International Language

"Korean Goes Global: Exploring the Spread of Hallyu and 한글 (Hangeul)"

Language is one of the most important parts of our life. Every time we require languages to express ourselves. Learning language is a great skill and experience in our life. Just like me being engaged into learning a new language 'KOREAN'. No matter how much difficult it is, we should try to learn new things.

Learning Korean language is a difficult task. The grammar is very complex to be understood. This article is not in Korean language because I'm still learning it. But there are some words that I know well.

The Korean language has:

- Hangul: It is the Korean writing system having 10 basic vowels and 14 basic consonants.
- Grammar: The grammar is characterized by its SUBJECT - OBJECT - VERB (S-O-V) word order.
- Particles: Common particles include subject markers (이/가), object markers (을/를), topic markers (은/는), and location markers (에/에서), among others.
- Sentence Structure: Korean sentences are structured differently from English. In addition to the SOV word order, they often begin with the topic or a contextual phrase, followed by the subject, object, and verb.

Korean language is gradually changing the mindset of people and increasing its followers across the world. It has introduced its famous Korean pop (K-Pop) culture which is fascinating people all around. It has introduced some of its legendary groups/bands as BTS, Black Pink, TXT, Seventeen etc. This culture is leading Korea to put more steps ahead for fame. Now the result of these efforts is in front. These efforts have encouraged people to look forward for learning new about their language and millions of followers know many words that are common for the native Koreans but new and interesting for the learners. Like- annyeonghaseyo (hello), gamsahabnida (thank you), nae jasin (myself), innida (to be) and so on. It has been changing the scenario of the world and taking its place.

Korea's efforts has made its KOREAN LANGUAGE popular and beneficial socially, economically and emotionally too as people are connecting to them. This has made access to all the non-native people to even experience their culture with full heart and soul and they are grateful to that too. Now many Indians even have a place of respect in the Korean culture which must be appreciated. I'm also fascinated with it.

So, I'm ending with my article here only. Igeos-i geugos-ui yeoleobun moduege jeongboga doegileul balabnida. (I hope this must be informative for all of you there.)

Gamsahabnida (Thank You)

Interesting Phrases in Different Languages

1. "Un pezzo di pane" - Italian

Meaning - Did you know that calling someone a piece of bread in Italian is actually a compliment? Saying "Sei un pezzo di pane," to someone, is like saying that they're a kind person with a good heart. After all, who doesn't love some freshly-baked bread? In English, the equivalent is calling someone a good egg.

2. "Det er ugler i mosen" - Norwegian

Meaning - If you were to say "There is an owl in the bog," in Norwegian, you'd be declaring that you were suspicious. You'd be thinking that something might be wrong, or that some mischief was going on. You see, owls hunt in bogs silently - you might not see or hear the problem, but you have a feeling that trouble might be coming.

3. "Komm schon, spring über deinen Schatten" - German

Meaning - Want to give your German-speaking friend a boost to step out of their comfort zone and try something new? No problem. Just tell them, "Come on, jump over your shadow!" with this encouraging and commonly-used German idiom.

4. "Estar como una cabra" - Spanish

Meaning - This phrase means "To be like a goat." In Spanish culture, goats are often considered crazy animals, so this is a common (and brilliantly odd) way to say that someone is being a little wild. "You partied all night until the sun came up? Estar como una cabra!"

5. "L'habit ne fait pas le moine" - French

Meaning - This fun French phrase translates as "The habit doesn't make the monk," in English. Simply, it means that you shouldn't judge someone just on how they look.
